

The New York State University Police at Upstate Medical University will partner together with Allied Barton Security Services to sponsor and co-host a full day seminar on Active Shooter; How to Prepare, Prevent and Respond.

Violence enters our communities and workplaces every day. Awareness, prevention and response planning are essential to protecting your organization. Respected industry experts will lead this powerful discussion on active shooter scenarios and the impact and evolving threat of workplace violence.

This seminar will be held on May 24, 2016 from 9:00am to 4:00pm at Onondaga Community College Storer Auditorium in Syracuse. Tom Davis, prior Senior Director of Facilities Management and Security for the University of Colorado Health, will present a keynote address on the University of Colorado Anschutz Medical Center's response to the movie theater shooting in Aurora, the nation's largest active shooter tragedy to date.

Kim Richmond from the National Center for Campus Safety will also be a speaker at this event. In addition, there will be other speakers including the New York State University Police @ Upstate Medical University's presentation, ASK (Active Shooter Knowledge) along with an expert panel available to answer questions from the audience.

This seminar is complimentary and will include lunch and refreshments throughout the day.

Please register at the following link...

http://pages.alliedbarton.com/052016---Active-Shooter-Seminar---Syracuse---Kehoe\_Registration.html